EDUCATION AND TRAINING

Our commitment to FDA compliance starts with education. We incorporate a continual employee training program through our Food and Safety management practices. This program is dedicated to keeping our associates knowledgeable and accountable for extensive plant cleanliness and the manufacturing of food grade bags and products.

FOOD GRADE BAGS

JohnPac's woven polypropylene bags are made from FDA compliant fabric and liners constructed with 100% pure resins. When necessary, our food grade bags are carefully crafted using ultrasonic cutting or rolled seams to prevent stray yarns from cut edges.

Our imported food grade bags are manufactured in GFSI compliant facilities. (BRC, FSSC 22000, ETC)

FOOD SAFETY

Food safety is emphasized in all of our facilities and is carefully implemented through the following procedures:

- Food grade cleaners & lubricants on all machinery
- Off-floor production
- Continual dust extraction & interior vacuum
- Metal detection for additional safety
- Removal of loose threads
- Multi-layer inspection processes
- Pest control management to prevent contamination

SAFETY

JohnPac boasts an impressive employee safety record, 1700+ days without incurring a lost time accident (LTD). This is an ongoing achievement. We foster opportunities for our staff to identify and implement points for improvement by conveying their views to their supervisor on a daily basis and during weekly safety meetings. If needed, this feedback reaches executive management where plans are incorporated for positive change.
